

LSNTAP Announces Access to Comprehensive Technology Initiative Grants Database

Ypsilanti, MI – October 10, 2024 – Legal Services National Technology Assistance Project (LSNTAP), an organization providing technology education and resources for legal aid and non-profit legal service providers, is thrilled to announce the launch of the full version of our comprehensive Technology Initiative Grants (TIG) database. The full database is now available on our website.

The Technology Initiative Grants, awarded by the Legal Services Corporation (LSC), have been instrumental in advancing technology in the legal aid sector. Our database includes detailed information on all TIG awards, providing invaluable insights and resources for legal service providers, researchers, and policymakers. Also included in the database is information on Technology Improvement Project (TIP) grants.

Key Features of the Database:

Comprehensive Coverage: Includes all TIG and TIP awards from the past 25 years.

Detailed Information: Each entry provides in-depth details about the grant, including project descriptions, target audience, legal issue addressed, and funding amounts. As the research continues, the database will expand to include outcomes and major advances.

User-Friendly Interface: Easy-to-navigate design and filtering ensures quick access to information.

“We are excited to offer this expanded resource to the legal aid community,” said Shellie Reid, Manager of LSNTAP. “By making the full TIG database available, we aim to support innovation and collaboration in the legal services field, ultimately enhancing access to justice for all.”

The full version of the TIG database is now available at <https://bit.ly/TIGData>. We invite all legal aid organizations, researchers, and interested parties to explore this valuable resource.
